

News Release

(March 24, 2011) The City of Gallatin's Triple Creek Sports Complex has been awarded the 2010 ISA Adult Complex of the Year by the Independent Softball Association (ISA).

The ISA, founded in 1984, is a major governing body of amateur softball in America. More than 18,000 teams are registered with the ISA.

"This is an honor to the park facility and to all the employees who work hard to make these tournaments successful," said David Brown, Director of Leisure Services."

The ISA has numerous tournaments in Gallatin bringing thousands of people to the City.

"These tournaments are a tremendous asset to the City," Mayor Jo Ann Graves said. "They generate both interest and income for the City. David Brown and his crews certainly deserve the recognition."
